COMMUNITIES IN SCHOOLS OF TENNESSEE surrounds students with resources and support, empowering them to stay in school. They work to remove the non-academic barriers that prevent student success in the classroom. By partnering with local school districts, they provide daily interventions to students in grades K-12 to address academic failure, truancy, behavioral challenges, social service needs and more.

KENNEDY

“Our work with students is all about relationships – we know that kids thrive when they see their community show up for them. Whether they are working with students one-on-one as reading buddies or supporting school events like family engagement nights, Hands On volunteers are showing students that they care and creating positive outcomes for our schools.”
